Overview

The Southern United States Trade Association (SUSTA) seeks proposals to develop and implement an Export Readiness Training (ERT) for organization member states in the 14 state and commonwealth region for value-added and qualified agricultural commodities covered by the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Market Access Program (MAP).

The Organization

The Southern United States Trade Association (SUSTA) is a 501c non-profit international trade development organization, which combines federal, state and industry resources for export market development. SUSTA's member states include Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

SUSTA cooperates with its member State Departments of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to carry out programs that will increase U.S. agricultural exports. SUSTA promotes U.S. agricultural products in over 30 countries by way of international trade exhibitions, trade missions, in store promotions, export seminars, and point-of-sale promotions. It also provides export assistance to small businesses to offset their export promotion costs.

Background

SUSTA's funding is almost entirely derived from the federal Market Access Program (MAP) and the Agriculture Trade Promotion (ATP), which is administered by the USDA's Foreign Agriculture Service (FAS). The organization is tasked with working with southern exporters to find markets for their agriculture products and enhance the economic well-being of the region it serves. All federal funds under MAP and ATP must be utilized according to federal regulations outlined by USDA.

SUSTA assists companies in promoting products internationally through two basic types of programs: The MAP and ATP "Branded" program and the MAP and ATP "Generic" program:

- SUSTA's 50% CostShare (Branded) program assists individual companies to carry out their own marketing activities internationally by reimbursing them for 50% of eligible marketing and promotional expenses. Companies must be small according to the Small Business Administration (SBA) guidelines for MAP and three times SBA standards for ATP. Their products must be of at least 50% U.S. agricultural origin. Products promoted have been as diverse as pecans, rice, seafood, alligator hides, snack foods and hot sauce. Companies apply for funding on a fiscal year basis, with marketing and promotional activities taking place year-round and concluding by December 31st.
- SUSTA's Global Events (Generic) activities are industry-wide projects managed by SUSTA staff along with its member State Departments of Agriculture. Activities typically include trade missions, trade shows, in store promotions, chef promotions, and trade seminars. Any company or cooperative with products of 50% or more U.S. agricultural origin are welcome to participate in SUSTA's Global Events.

Scope of Work

SUSTA is seeking firms to assist with the implementation of a collaborative Export Readiness Training through a competitive proposal process. Export Readiness Training is intended to provide small and mid-size companies in the southern US territory an opportunity to evaluate company capacity for exporting, teach practical export fundamentals (how to: do market research, price products, organize logistics, insure shipment) and exposure to business resources to move export opportunities forward utilizing the MAP and other marketing based tools. The period for the contract will be one year. SUSTA may identify multiple locations for training to accommodate at least six but no more than twelve companies in each location. SUSTA will renew contracts based on funding for each program year. Ultimately, SUSTA would like to leverage in-person ERT and create a web-based learning platform to service more companies throughout our region.

The deliverables of the project include structural and implementation components:

1. A review of existing ERT resources through agriculture and non-agriculture-based resources. Examples could include FAS, Small Business Development Center (SBDC), colleges and universities, Commerce Department models, and World Trade Centers. Though thorough in content, the deliverable is expected to identify strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats (SWOT analysis) with each of these resources to see what components may work well with a custom SUSTA program design. It is expected that these resources will be multi-agency and multi-media. (Structure)

2. A needs assessment of member-state ERT export business concerns. This deliverable should explore the existing services provided to potential agriculture exporters and how can a program build upon existing resources. Critical to this deliverable is how state department of agriculture personnel can assist the program in providing custom training or engagement for specific product categories (fresh, horticulture, seafood, value-added) at the state level to be an integral part of SUSTA's overall ERT goals. (Structure)
3. Based on needs and existing resources (as identified in numbers 1 & 2 above), develop a core curriculum that will guide a new-to-export companies through the process of creating an international marketing strategy. Candidate should be knowledgeable and experienced in practical implementation of such a strategy.
4. Establish measurable and quantifiable ERT goals through work with SUSTA's third-party evaluator. (Implementation)
5. Identify appropriate delivery modalities given the constraints identified with small companies, limited resources and broadband challenges. (Structure)
6. Create and deliver a valid and concise curriculum design that promotes flexibility, customization and scale for SUSTA region companies to deploy. Specifics about assessment tools and "best practices" may be included in this section. (Structure and Implementation)
7. Develop and deliver a training matrix and performance measures to insure ERT learning outcomes that are reportable to FAS. (Structure and Implementation)
8. Details of a communication and interaction plan with individual State Department of Agriculture personnel and potential exporters should be documented. This may require individual state visits and training for staff and potential exporters. (Implementation)
9. Create a budget for the Structure and Implementation stages focusing on sustainability and adaptability within each participating state. (Implementation)
10. Deliver reports and program documentation to a variety of constituents. (Implementation)
